

TALIESIN

Jim McDERMOTT

It seems right that in the year that North Shore won its first football championship the yearbook should be dedicated to the team's coach. Mr. Reardon was truly responsible for the year's outstanding record. He insisted on the highest standards for all players and he demonstrated that his personal philosophy of hard work and clean living is effective. However, it is not only John Reardon, the football coach, to whom we dedicate Taliesin '63, but John Reardon, the man, who for many years has inspired respect, admiration, and affection in us all.

administration

A school is the human manifestation of a natural phenomenon: the tree. Just as the tree lives because it is supported by the life of years past, so a school is invigorated by its traditions and the experiences of those who have gone before. A tree grows each year, but it is not altered fundamentally. In the same way, a school's personality changes as classes are graduated, but the basic structure remains.

The foundation of the school is supplied by the administration. Our staff, sustained by a rich supply of experience, provides a source of constant, sympathetic guidance. Their varied talents find expression in an enthusiastic, earnest dedication to the dissemination of knowledge. We are indebted to their inspiration and direction for much of the meaning in our lives.

Dr. French, our principal, is the single person most responsible for the image which the outside world sees of North Shore High School. He is in charge of the school's general policies concerning curriculum, discipline, and activities, and serves as a link between it and the central office. His active support of all school activities and his friendly manner clearly demonstrate his personal interest in the students.

DR. JOHN E. FRENCH, PRINCIPAL

A vice-principal's position is one that is frequently demanding, time-consuming, and meager in reward. Yet Mr. Rosengren's warm smile perseveres throughout his often delicate tasks, or beams in friendly greeting in the halls. His quiet, efficient support of Dr. French is indispensable to the smooth, competent functioning of the high school administration.

MR. SVEN O. ROSENGREN, ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL

Four guidance counselors work all year to organize the school's curriculum and to arrange schedules for each pupil. In addition, the guidance department helps North Shore students with advice about school problems, college admissions, and work opportunities before and after graduation.

The English department functions in two capacities. It lays a foundation for expression and comprehension in other subjects and it introduces the student to the great body of literature that is part of our heritage and the world's. The members of the department work to perfect the student's skills in manipulating the language and try to stimulate his creativity.

Because of the importance of the individual citizen in a democratic society, Social Studies attempts to create, in each pupil, real understanding and knowledge of the course of nations and ideas throughout history. In North Shore we study the evolution of western civilization from the ideas of the ancient world; the character of other peoples as seen through their geographical backgrounds; the development of American history; and the movement and meaning of current events.

Foreign languages develop our linguistic skills and extend our knowledge of world culture. Latin portrays the life and works of classical man, while modern tongues cement the increasingly complex bonds among nations. Our teachers develop our facility in language, while whetting our curiosity as to the exploits, legendary and contemporary, of ever intriguing mankind.

The work of our science department is evidence of our students' increasing awareness of the physical world around them. In North Shore's science rooms are up-to-date materials and apparatus valued at thousands of dollars. Eight enterprising and energetic instructors teach the basic courses: General Science or Earth Science, Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Physical Science. Our program is carefully designed to provide both practical knowledge and a thorough preparation for continued study in college. From North Shore's students will come many of the scientists of tomorrow.

$\sin x + \sin y = \sin x \cos x + \sin y \cos y$ is one of the formulae particularly attractive to those students whom the mathematics department leads into abstract mathematics. On a less elevated level, our math teachers instruct many other students in the concrete elements of general mathematics, algebra, geometry, and trigonometry.

Mr. John Williams

To a unique extent, the students of North Shore benefit from the activities of the Music Department. The Band plays at all home football games. Concert assemblies and performances, at which the chorus groups, the Orchestra, and the Band each present several selections, are held during the Christmas season and in the spring. The department also provides individual instruction in musical instruments and courses in musical theory and appreciation.

North Shore's Industrial Arts Department offers our students opportunities for practical experience and vocational training, under expert instruction and in well equipped shops. Besides the general shop course, specialized courses are offered in electrical theory, machine shop, auto mechanics, and wood and metal working. Mechanical and architectural drawing courses are also offered for our future engineers, technicians and architects.

High school is a preparation for adulthood. Here hopes and ambitions germinate, and plans for future vocations are born. Progress from 9th through 12th grades is a sometimes halting, sometimes breathless process. The seniors, poised to enter a demanding world, have worked and laughed for four memorable years. Whether college or a direct encounter with the world awaits them, high school has molded, directed, and enriched their lives.

Mike McNamara decides selling is for him.

Toby Fleishman asks, "What comes after $200?"

A tradition of North Shore's senior classes is the annual Magazine Drive, held each September to help raise money for the trip to Washington and for the class's gift to the school.

This year 195 students made sales, with Arthur Stein top salesman, Carol Soper in second place, and Carl Naples in third. Each received a prize for his efforts. Students who sold three subscriptions to Look won a sleepy dog, and cash awards were given by lot to those who went over their quotas, as well as to homeroom representatives in rooms that sold the most magazines.

In the ten days of the Magazine Drive, the value of the subscriptions sold was $11,872.08, which meant a profit for the Class of 1963 of $4062.13.

Bob Jaeger asks, "Whoever invented the senior Thesis?"

Bob Wayne picks and chooses

Right now it feels great to be a senior, with a slightly inflated ego and a tendency to laugh at all forms of authority. Each of us is one person in a high school. We know who we are and where we stand. In a little while, however, each will be just one person among three and a half billion and we'll spend the rest of our lives trying to figure out who we are.

The first main class event of our senior year was the magazine drive. We mustered all our persuasive powers, and pleaded with friends, neighbors, and unsuspecting strangers. The drive was an overwhelming success.

Our next undertaking was to support the class play, My Sister Eileen. The comedy played to two full, appreciative houses.

Seniors were overjoyed when finally, in March, construction of the new junior high was completed. There was room to breathe in! The student lounge, so long a converted classroom, became student property again.

One of the year's high points was the trip to Washington. Blinking, awestruck at the dawn, we roared out of North Shore at 5:30 A.M., May 16. The two days swept by, bursting with activity and novelty. We went on a whirlwind tour of our capital, visiting the traditional memorials and monuments, the Library of Congress, the National Archives, the National Art Gallery, the White House, the F.B.I., and the Capitol Building.

Then there were finals and our Senior prom based on Gone With the Wind. It was a marvelous, sentimental climax to a part of our lives that has gone . . . the best part.

During our junior year we listened and talked to college representatives, visited colleges, took the PSAT, College Board and Merit Scholarship tests, and made whatever plans we could for college. Those of us who are going to work after high school concentrated, when possible, on academic courses that will help prepare for the future and started deciding what this future will be.

It was a year in which school work increased in difficulty and, often, in interest. American literature and American history were studied and enjoyed; science material was presented in greater depth than in the earlier years; languages were seldom a matter of verb endings or noun forms but an opportunity really to read and appreciate the literature of other countries.

All was not work and worry, however. In November we ordered our school rings which arrived and were immediately put on in the spring. We went to games, plays and dances, and of course there was our Junior Prom, the most important social event of the junior year.

In retrospect, our junior year was trying, hectic—and wonderful.

"Double, double, toil and trouble," and more toil and more trouble.

This is the lot of the average student who has the luck to be a "busy sophomore."

This year we had a newly-planned English course, World Literature, in which the plays, novels, essays, and poems of many countries were covered. The poems were everyone's favorites! World Lit. was designed to parallel to some extent the standard tenth year world history course. Here we learned about everything from Og the cave man to George W. Og, the modern commuter. Euclid pounded his way into our heads through geometry, formally known as Tenth Year Math. In Biology we struggled through dehydration synthesis and enzyme actions.

The Sophomores were out in front with the best in the football season. Our class contributed two cheerleaders Jeff Hollman and Gerard Kenny. For wrestling, soccer, baseball, most sports, and especially basketball, we supplied players and big crowds to cheer them on.

We attended the Student Council's National Thespians' and Junior Thespians' dances and, of course, our own very successful sophomore dance, "Say It With Hearts."

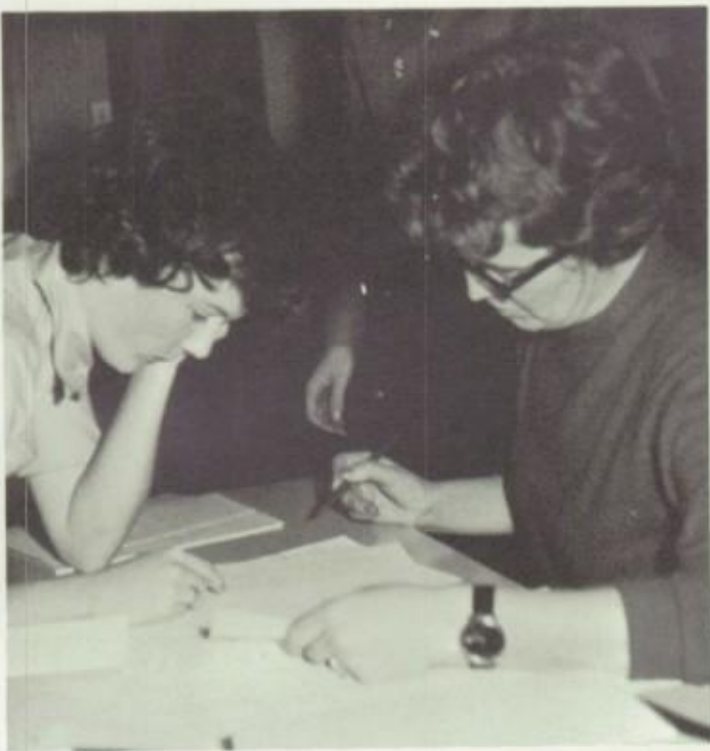

"Busy sophomores" has indeed been the right name for our class. With many stimulating courses, activities and clubs, encompassing everything from science to dramatics, keeping us occupied, our year has been a satisfying and enjoyable one.

In the ninth grade it has been a busy, full year. With a feeling of accomplishment and relief, we know that our freshman year is over and the first, big step toward the future is a thing of the past.

School was difficult at first. Social studies were a bit harder than we had expected (the second semester, especially). However, interested by our teachers, we somehow managed to pull through. We had to work with diligence in English. And Math?—It wasn't the "snap" it used to be.

Various pleasant diversions prevented acute cases of "workitis" from developing. Football and basketball games, dances run by the Student Council and one of our own, ski trips led by Mr. Passer, plays directed by Mr. Thompson, and, of course, vacations were welcome breaks in the academic routine.

This was a wonderful year, and if we had to repeat it, we would. However, we would much rather go on to the new experiences and adventures that come with being upper-classmen.

North Shore is fortunate to have a wide variety of clubs open to students. The span of activities reaches from the Mathletes to the Pep Club to the Musical Language Club. Some clubs welcome members from the whole school, while others require certain qualifications for membership.

The activities of the clubs broaden the students' understanding, explore subjects more deeply than daily classwork permits, allow members to develop new skills, and offer opportunities for entertainment and enjoyment.

A letter to us.

Under the Foster Parent Plan, each class in the high school supports a child in a foreign country. Members of the class may write the child and contribute money for a Christmas present. When a senior class graduates, its foster child is transferred to the incoming seventh grade. A committee, made up of a senior, junior, sophomore, and freshman, works with each class and helps to coordinate the whole Foster Parent program at North Shore.

This year's Student Council under the leadership of Wayne Patterson, its President, has made great strides toward awakening the student body to a full realization of the advantages of participation in school activities. It has given the students more social events, planned for the enjoyment of not only a few, but for the whole student body. Sponsored by Mr. Parker, the Council also gives students a concept of the aims and organization of representative government.

Work on Taliesin, the school yearbook, started in the spring of 1962 when rough plans were drawn up. During the fall, winter and early spring the editorial staff, advised by Mrs. Brill, laid out pages, collected photographs, wrote copy and took care of scores of details, while the advertising and business staffs, under Mr. Nelson, were in charge of the book's finances. After final proofs had been gone over, Taliesin went to the presses—and voici!

In the spring of their junior year many students take the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The top one per cent of students from each state are named semi-finalists and the next 25,000 competitors receive Letters of Commendation. This year, one North Shore student, Anne-Marie Scheidt, became a semi-finalist, and thirteen students were given Letters of Commendation.

The Junior Thespians, sponsored by Mr. Harry Thompson, are the freshman sophomore dramatic group. The purpose of the club is to develop an appreciation of the dramatic arts through presenting and attending plays. The group presented two performances each of two three-act plays, Agatha Christie's Ten Little Indians and Clarence Day's Life With Father. Through working on the various crews—set, properties, costumes, business—and taking parts in the plays, members may earn points toward membership in the National Thespian Society.

The National Thespian Society is a non-secret, non-social organization that is dedicated to the advancement of dramatic arts in secondary schools. Its members work on assembly productions, present plays, and see as many theatrical productions as possible. Membership is limited to those students who have acquired ten credits of theatrical work in the school.

This year for the first time in the history of the North Shore Chapter Mrs. McNamara, its sponsor, entered the club in the annual Hofstra Shakespearean festival in March.

This year marked the first year that the Viking Masquers independently produced a full length musical. The entire production of The Boy Friend: sets, costumes, lights, and music arrangements were prepared by the members themselves. Proceeds from the production were donated to the American Field Service. The spring musical, presented at the school and before organizations on Long Island, marked the second time that the Masquers and the National Thespians have merged to present a show. As always, the year's program included a trip to the city to see a Broadway play. Mr. Mooney is organizer and director.

At its monthly meetings the Play-readers' Club, sponsored by Mr. Mooney, attempts to study the various types of dramatic literature through readings of entire plays. This year the Playreaders studied significant plays in the history of the theatre, among them Antony and Cleopatra, An Enemy of the People, Oedipus Rex and The Lower Depths. Meetings are held in the homes of the members.

The study of the theater as a forum for ideas is the purpose of the North Shore Drama Quartet led by Mr. Mooney. As this year's project, the quartet presented an abridged version of Samuel Beckett's Waiting For Godot. The presentation included a panel discussion of the play, featuring members of the audience and of the play. The production was presented at assemblies in several Nassau County High Schools. In addition, it was the feature presentation for several P.T.A. programs.

Whenever a stage production is presented at North Shore, members of the sound and light crew provide experienced help for the operation of the sound and light equipment. This group, trained by Mrs. McNamara, runs the apparatus efficiently and skillfully at assemblies, community programs, and dramatic performances.

library assistants

The library assistants have many duties and give real service to students and faculty. They help slip and shelve books, revise shelves, check in and revise magazines, alphabetize catalog cards, help process new books, and write overdue notices. The students give two, three or more periods each week to this work. They find that their service to the school teaches them how to use a library efficiently.

Two French clubs, Le Cercle Francais for advanced students, under Miss Scott, and Le Cercle Lafayette, led by Miss Sedlak, for students who study first and second year French, were organized this year. Members of the clubs practice their French in an informal atmosphere, learn about French culture and life, and go on excursions to places where their knowledge of French civilization can be extended.

physics club

Members of the Physics Club probe the science of physics, trying to obtain a deeper understanding of problems which cannot be considered in class time. Each member must design and conduct an experiment in detail and perform a demonstration before the annual Science Department Open House in March. During the club's monthly meetings, members participate in discussion of advanced physics problems. Dr. Bromberick is the sponsor.

The Mathletes are students interested in mathematics generally and in problem solving particularly. At bi-monthly meetings, they train for six contests with other schools during the year. These contests are sponsored by the Nassau County Interscholastic Mathematics League. Under the supervision of Mr. Fenn, and with the help of Mr. Osborn, the Mathletes explore new mathematical topics, many of them involving principles not covered in the classroom.

In order to broaden horizons for those interested in chemistry, the Chemistry Club, led by Mr. Weisman, invites speakers from academic and industrial areas to discuss with it the advantages and disadvantages of the various branches of chemistry. The group also plans several field trips to industrial and college laboratories. In addition, special demonstrations and experiments in more advanced areas of chemistry are performed by the individual members of the club.

Sponsored by Miss Maple and Mrs. Trauth, the members of the Girls' Athletic Association are given an opportunity to improve their athletic skills and to compete against other schools. They meet two afternoons a week throughout the year to play field hockey, badminton, volleyball, basketball, softball, and tennis, and to work out on the apparatus.

The Varsity Club is made up of boys who have one or more letters in athletics and have been recommended by at least three members. Under the leadership of Mr. Schiffer and Mr. Reardon, it is mainly a money making organization which sells refreshments at home athletic games. The money raised is used to help pay for club sweaters and jackets. Social activities are also part of the club's program.

This year a new system of cheerleading was introduced. The move was prompted by the hope that the squad, made up of four boys and three girls from the various classes, would inspire the spectators to be active and vocal in their cheering, instead of merely appreciative as they had been in the past. The idea has been a successful one, for the cheerleaders were certainly a positive factor in improving school spirit during the year.

Prospective teachers meet each month with Miss McCormack, the sponsor of the Future Teachers Club at North Shore. The group invites teachers to tell about the teaching profession: preparation, advantages, and personal experiences. Members observe classes in the seventh and eighth grades, and, as a service project, tutor junior high students who need help.

homemakers

The objectives of the Future Homemakers of America, sponsored by Mrs. Lambert, are to help girls become good citizens and good homemakers. This year, business meetings were held once or twice a month, while every Monday was a workshop day on which members worked on individual cooking, homemaking, or sewing projects. Special events this year included preparing a typical American Thanksgiving Day dinner for our Belgian exchange student, a trip to Bellevue Hospital, and lectures on flower arranging and good grooming.

In the three years since it was started, the Ski Club has become one of the school's largest organizations. The club was founded to instruct beginners in the fundamentals of skiing, to help the more experienced gain new skills through practice, and to provide a pleasant pastime for all. This year, the Schussboomers, under the leadership of Mr. Passer, went on several minor excursions and spent a week-end skiing in the Berkshires.

The Chess Club was organized to foster a love of the game among senior high students. Every other Friday the club members meet to play games and to develop their skills. Matches with other schools are frequently held. Mr. O'Connor is the adviser.

human relations club

The aim of the Human Relations Club is to promote a better understanding among people of different religious, racial, social, and economic backgrounds. At its bi-monthly meetings, the club has many thought-provoking discussions, debates and lectures, which are open to everyone. During this past year, the Humans Relations Club presented an assembly for Brotherhood Week, sent five sophomores to a Brotherhood Camp affiliated with the N.C.C.J., and several seniors to seminar discussions sponsored by the Society of Friends. Dr. Hartman is faculty adviser.

The Varsity Band, sponsored by Mr. Ryder, is an accredited elective subject and meets daily during fourth period. The purpose of the Band is not only to add color and interest to athletic activities, but to give its members a rich musical background and to develop in them high standards of music appreciation. For the past several years the Band has competed at the annual State Music Festival in the highest category of competition—Grade 6—and last spring won a 6A rating.

A Varsity Orchestra, composed of students who are able to play music of intermediate or greater difficulty, is part of both the academic and activity programs of North Shore. Each year, under the direction of Mr. Ryder and Mr. Dyer, the orchestra plays at the Christmas and Spring Concerts. Each year, too, it takes part in the All-State competition and for the past several years has won a 6A rating.

Half a period each school day is spent in rehearsal by the members of the Varsity Chorus, who receive academic credit for their work. Under the direction of Mr. Sterling, the group participates in concerts and assemblies twice a year. It has become a custom for this body to sing Handel's "Halleluia Chorus" each year at the Christmas concert. The chorus performs in the annual All-State music competition and for several years has achieved the highest possible score.

The Junior Chorus, also directed by Mr. Sterling, is made up of a group of freshman and sophomore girls who were separated last fall from the Varsity Chorus because of the large number who were interested in singing. The Junior Chorus sings at the school concerts at Christmas and in the spring, performing numbers well suited to its members' voices.

The DoMiSols have been organized by Mr. Sterling in an attempt to refine singing techniques and tone in a group smaller than the Varsity Chorus. It is made up of girls with unusual vocal talent who are interested in singing materials quite different from those ordinarily performed by larger choral groups. The DoMiSols sing in school concerts and special programs and for other clubs in the school.

hoarse norsemen

Mr. Sterling has organized the Hoarse Norsemen, a selected group of chorus members who meet after school to practice musical numbers which suit the ensemble's size and voice range. The Norsemen, like the DoMiSols, perform at most school concerts as well as at special programs for the community.

folk song chorus

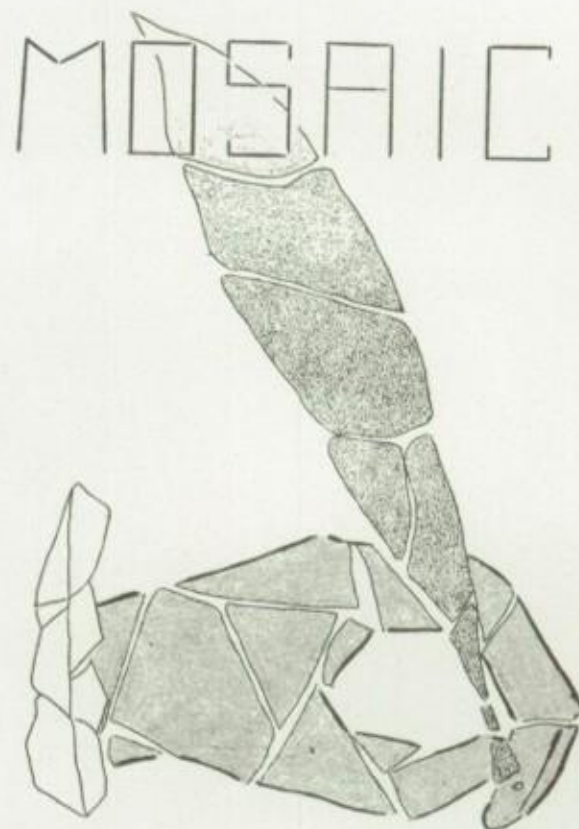

The Folk Song Chorus is a part of the Foreign Language Department. Its objective is to produce two and three part a cappella music in many languages for the clubs and parties of the Language Department. During the fall, the club learned songs in French, Spanish, English and Latin; in the spring, in Russian, German, Italian, and an American Indian dialect. During the year it presented programs of carols and folk songs and the musical pageant, "Las Posadas De Larga Jornada."

Through the Creative Writing Club, under the leadership of Mrs. Cramer, students are given an opportunity to present their writing to an appreciative, yet critical group. Effective communication of original ideas in either serious or humorous vein is encouraged. The club magazine, Mosaic, prints a selection of the best expression of the members' work at the end of the year.

pest club

The purpose of this club is clearly implied by its name. The Club's first important event of the year was harassing the Taliesin photographer on the day activity pictures were taken, and several other similar functions are planned. Although it is not sponsored by any member of the faculty, the club is familiar to many teachers in this school.

sports

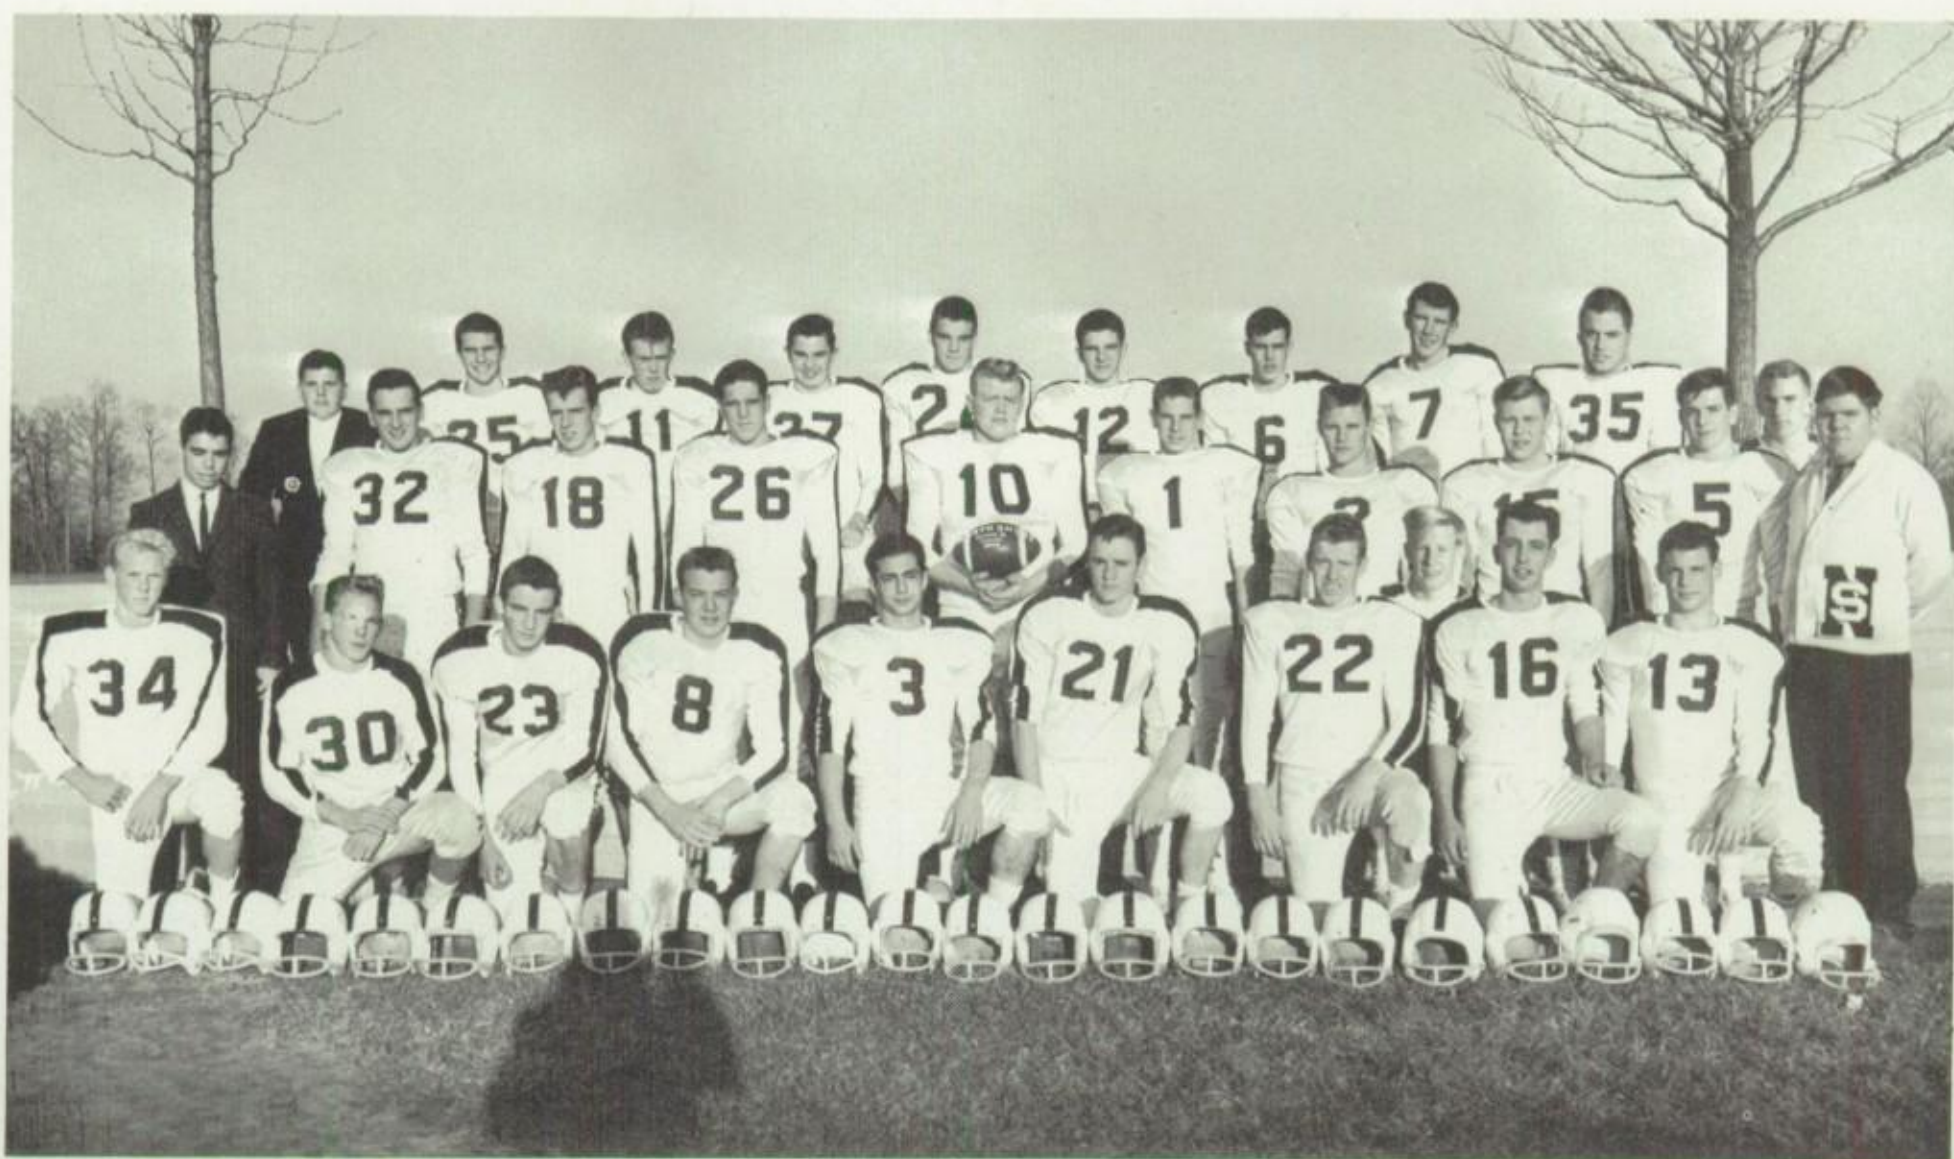

The varied sports program at North Shore this year has succeeded in engaging the interest of a large number of students, either as participants or as spectators. Hundreds of boys played baseball, soccer, or basketball; entered cross-country or track meets; appeared in tennis and golf matches; bowled; wrestled; or were a part of a highly successful football team.

A striking increase in school spirit was indicated by the large number of students who travelled to away games and who attended pep rallies. School cheering was boosted by a new cheer-leading squad of four boys and three girls.

The North Shore Varsity Football Team tied Manhasset for the North Shore Division III championship. The Vikings had a 6-2 won and lost record with wins over Island Trees, Westbury, Glen Cove, Manhasset, Locust Valley, and Roslyn and losses to Plainview and Bethpage. North Shore placed four on the Division III all-star team. Don Huffer and Paul Mlinar at tackle, Don Van Deusen at quarterback, and Bill Lawrence at guard were the four players. Paul Mlinar made all-Long Island tackle. Mr. Reardon was the coach.

The North Shore Varsity Cross-Country Team coached by Mr. Thompson won four out of five meets this year, placing a close second in its league. The only loss was to Carle Place. At the end of the season, North Shore was host to three teams in a holiday meet. The Vikings finished in a tie for second. The team consisted of Bill Roberts, Jeff Illston, Paul Cook, Paul Kelley, George Reid, and Jerry Duncan. Bill Roberts won the County Cross-Country Meet and went to the State Meet.

The North Shore Varsity Tennis Team, under the coaching of Mr. Barna, finished the season with 4 wins, 5 losses, and 1 tie. Seniors Rusty Cooke, Peter Basilevsky, Brent Ain, and Bob Wayne were dominant figures, with many freshmen, sophomores, and juniors building up a bright North Shore future in tennis.

The North Shore Varsity Wrestling Team under the coaching of Mr. Reardon stayed at the top or near the top of its league throughout the season. Led by co-captains Don Huffer and Bill Lawrence, the team lost very few matches. In the Christmas Tournament at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Don Huffer and Bob Reinhardt won the championships in their weight classes. Before losing to Carle Place, North Shore had not lost in 20 consecutive matches.

The North Shore Golf Team has been a contender for the County Championship for the past three years, and Coach Bob Barna believes that our golf program, which begins at the seventh grade, will continue to develop champions. This year Jim Rafferty and Bill Lawrence, who completed their third varsity year, aided by newcomer Walter Jankowski, were the backbone of the team. Captain Todd Parker and Gerry March will be back to lead the team next year.

1st row: W. Jankowski, P. Ostuni, C. Hinton, J. Brown, J. March, V. Kucmierowski, R. Buckhout, J. Rafferty, Mr. Barna. 2nd row: J. Kneuker, R. Kopetic, R. DuBois, S. Person, J. McDermott, T. Parker.

The North Shore Varsity Bowling Team participated in league play this year under its new coach Mr. O'Connor. Led by Seniors Paul Ostuni, Tom Carroll, Rocky Raye and Ron Chaplin, the team bowled two matches each against Roslyn, Glen Cove, Manhasset, Port Washington, and Great Neck North.
